Subject: Strong Microsoft Remedy

I ask that each of you direct your good offices to make sure that the Remedy in the Microsoft anti-trust case be stringent and strong. I have watched this company manipulate, strangle and stomp competition and harm the computer industry. As a Macintosh technical support guy, I know things need not be that way. (Not that Apple hasn't done bad and manipulative things as well.)

Please help us consumers and technical people at least breaking up MS into different elements. At best, put portions of their OS into the public domain.

With Thanks,

Bill Geraci (jer-AW-see)
